FORWARD

Having been blessed in my youth with grandparents who were nearby and interested in me, I often heard them speak of their parents and grandparents. Naturally enough this instilled in me an interest and respect for my forebears. As I grew older, I found that our name is an unusual and uncommon one and so determined to find out all I could about my own ancestry.

In my search for information about my particular line of descent, I found that there is no general Thrall genealogy although there are some small good ones, all of which are far from up-to-date. Therefore, I decided to undertake the compilation of a more current record of the Thrall Family in America. Hopefully, this will fill the need for a few years.

The earlier genealogies show, by their existence, that the need for one has been felt before. These were mostly done in the nineteenth century when many families were dispersing throughout the continent and family records were no longer easy to keep.

We are indebted to Samuel Thrall (#124), one of the first to move from Windsor, Connecticut where the first Thrall in this country, William (#1) settled in 1636 and where his descendants still live on land which includes the original meadow belonging to William on the Farmington River. Samuel moved first to Granville, Massachusetts and later to Rutland, Vermont. He taught his nine surviving children much of the family history. His son, Jesse, moved from Vermont to Granville, Ohio, where his son, Walter became a probate judge.

Walter in the course of finding heirs for people who died far from their families, realized the need for family records and determined to find out all he could about his own family and to record it accurately and clearly. He frequently came East from Ohio on business and so was able to learn a great deal from his relatives, Windsor County grave stones, village and church records. His findings became the first printed Thrall Genealogy.

At the beginning of this century, Charles Holmes Thrall (#1034) who lived in Cuba, but returned to his native Connecticut every summer because of an ailing wife, compiled a very complete and accurate manuscript genealogy which he painstakingly and beautifully transcribed in a leather-bound notebook, now in the Connecticut Historical Society in Hartford. Both Walter and Charles' work we have accepted as authentic because we found no real errors.

Another family genealogist, William H. Thrall, spent many years collecting information about the Thralls, but unhappily, his notes have been lost. Fortunately, he was extremely generous with his findings and many people with whom we have corresponded had learned much about their own line from him.

Although these collections form the foundation of this one, and have been largely accepted as accurate, we have checked most material as far as possible against public and official records, probate and court files wherever possible. The early Thralls, of course, stayed mostly in the vicinity of Windsor, Connecticut which has always kept fairly good records, making our task less difficult than it might have been. Much information was found in the Connecticut Historical Society, whose director, Thompson Harlow, and staff, were most helpful.

Vital and church records have been used when they could be found, but in many states, civil records were not kept until recently and are not always available to the public. My immediate family has ruined several pairs of shoes and careful coiffures searching rainy and windy cemeteries for names, dates and spouses of their ancestors.

We sent out approximately 800 forms to Thralls in the United States and Canada of which a gratifying percent were returned, in most cases filled out with infinite care, showing a great interest in the project.

Anyone who has had experience compiling such data can appreciate the endless series of obstacles and discouragements inherent in the work, if one insists on accuracy and completeness. It requires infinite patience, which this compiler sadly lacks, and a vast amount of time to consolidate, coordinate and revise the myriad bits of knowledge to say nothing of preparing the copy for the printer and proof-reading the galley sheets.

Some of the information we have received has had to be rejected because of errors and inconsistencies in dates, localities, relationships and even names. Another cause is the erratic spelling of Christian names which was common until the middle of the last century. In the course of this checking, we have acquired a collection of Thralls about whom we have insufficient information to be included, and we apologize to their descendants for our lack of skill. In these cases where we were unable to identify them, we tried to find proof of what information we had about them.

We have tried wherever possible, to give personal sketches, albeit brief ones, including interesting anecdotes, events in the life of an individual, and physical description when we had them. We have also to the best of our ability, recorded and preserved our sources of information. The index has been carefully constructed to cover all surnames, Christian names, which we hope will be useful.

No one will have the fortitude to study the entire genealogy but if one did he would find that our family has a long record of achievement. It has included its proportion of leaders, patriots, professional men, as well as respectable businessmen and farmers. Some who were real leaders, we knew too little about to give them their due.

This genealogy has been an avocation to which has been given only such time as business and personal duties allowed. Without the interest and perseverance of my secretary, Mrs. Beatrice Ingham, the task would have taken infinitely longer and been far more painful. Her devotion to the project often kept it going when discouragement and other interests appeared to be getting the upper hand. In this work she acquired genealogical know-how and a lively interest in it.

I would like to pay tribute to several members of the family whose interest in its genealogy has helped us tremendously. These include the previously mentioned Samuel Thrall, Walter Thrall, Charles Holmes Thrall and William H. Thrall, all deceased. Still others who deserve our gratitude are Gordon F. Thrall, Margaret Thrall McFarland, Ollie Mae Parker, Melville H. Thrall, Bernice Thrall Switzer, Barbara Thrall Rogers, and the late Major Ernest Thrall and his wife.

FIRST GENERATION IN AMERICA

1. WILLIAM THRALL

B. 1605 in England
D. 3 Aug. 1679 in Windsor, Conn.

WILLIAM THRALL is the forebear of the Thralls listed in this genealogy. WILLIAM came to America on the "Mary and John" in the year 1630 in a company of puritans under the leadership of Rev. John Wareham of Exeter and Rev. John Maverick, both ministers of the Church of England. Setting sail from Plymouth, England on March 20th, they first came ashore on May 30, 1630. They disembarked with what goods they had, to some high land in the salt meadow, now a part of the city of Boston. They named the place "Dorchester" a name selected by the captain of the "Mary and John" as he came from Dorchester, England. Rev. Wareham and Maverick and their group stayed in Dorchester less than five years, as a number of their menfolk had discovered much more fertile soil below the first falls of the Connecticut River, at the junction of the Farmington River just above Hartford. Part of the Colony went by boat and part traveled across the one hundred miles of virgin forest, to establish the town of Windsor, Connecticut.

The first we know of WILLIAM THRALL is that he is listed with the following men who were among the thirty men who went from Windsor to join in the fight against the Pequod Indians in May 1637: Capt. John Mason, Sgt. Benedict Alvord, Thomas Barber, Thomas Buckland, George Chappel, John Dyer, James Eggleston, Nath. Gillet, Thomas Gridley, Thomas Styles, Sgt. Thomas Stares, Richard Osborn, Thomas Parsons, William Thrall. The Indian village in this case was so completely destroyed that for many years, the settlers had no further trouble with the Indians. Some years later, the participants were given land grants. To quote from Dr. Styles' records in speaking of the first Indian war in New England: "The danger was imminent, and so complete the victory that it caused universal rejoicing throughout New England, and a grant of land was given each soldier and officer, and to this day the memory of an ancestor who was in the Pequod fight, is an honorable heirloom in every Connecticut family."

WILLIAM THRALL is mentioned many times in the early records. His lot shows up in the first plot of Windsor, between the lots of Nicholas Palmer and Thomas Bascomb, and ran from the road to the Farmington River. In 1646, WILLIAM sold this lot to Nicholas Palmer and moved to Simon Hoyte's place, north of the village. Robert Wilson bought a half interest with WILLIAM THRALL in the Hoyte's 80 acres, but sold his half to Thrall in 1654. This 80 acres has been part of the holdings of the Thrall family ever since.

We know literally nothing about the wife of WILLIAM THRALL. She is referred to in the Old Windsor records as "Goode" Thrall, but "Goode" was an expression applied to women with families and it is simply an abbreviation of "Goodwife." Whether she also came over on the "Mary and John" or whether they met in Dorchester, has never been established. The record of her death simply states: "Goode Thrall, wife of William, died 30 July 1676."

SECOND GENERATION

2 (William )

TIMOTHY THRALL Son of William Thrall, born in Windsor, Connecticut, 25 July 1641, died there June 1697. Married in Windsor, 10 Nov. 1659, Deborah GUNN, dau. of Thomas Gunn who came with Dorchester Company. She baptized 27 Feb. 1641 and died 17 Jan 1694 in Windsor.

In the Windsor Church Records of this period. TIMOTHY THRALL is grouped with the men who had a family, a horse and two yokes of oxen, so it would appear he was a better businessman than his brother-in-law, John Hosford. Hosford, however, is on two military lists. First on a list dated 11 Mar. 1657-8 of 37 Windsor men in the first horse troops (30 horse) in the Colony. Second, he was paid 6s 8d for fighting in King Philip's War.

Both men protested the town vote to invite Mr. Chauncy to replace the aging Rev. Wareham as minister of the Windsor Church in 1662. When the 54 dissenting members were allowed to form their own church, the brothers-in-law went with them and became leaders of the Second Church. This new congregation were more Presbyterian than Congregational, and opposed to Chauncy's ideas. This sort of schism was occurring throughout all the New England colonies and therefore the Windsor dissenters, when they appealed to the Colonial Council, were less harshly treated than they might have been. In the end, after years of wrangling, which split the town, the two Windsor Churches reunited. The first overtures were made by the Second Church, who sent John Hosford, Timothy Thrall and Jacob Gibbs to negotiate.

TIMOTHY THRALL was a land-owner. He had a place of his own, or did soon after his marriage in 1659. His father-in-law, Thomas Gunn, gave him the original Gunn homestead and lot, as well as Gunn's land on the other side of the River. Timothy moved to a new house and again was a leader in the forming of a new Church. Timothy was, we assume, honest and able, as he was named as executor in several wills.

Deborah Gunn, Timothy's wife, is mentioned in Old Windsor records. Her father moved in 1665, to Westfield, Mass. and became active in the Westfield Parish, leaving all his Windsor property to his son-in-law. Thomas Gunn died in Westfield on 26 Feb. 1681.

TIMOTHY and Deborah Thrall had eleven children, of whom two died in infancy.

PHILLURY THRALL dau. of William, immigrant, died in Windsor, Connecticut, 7 Aug. 1683. We have no birth date for her, but she was probably the oldest of William's two children. She married in Windsor, 5 Nov. 1657, John HOSFORD. He died May, 1698. John Hosford was given by William Thrall, the fifty acres granted the older man for his services in the first Pequod War. John was the son of Elder Wm. Hosford, who came on the "Mary and John". Elder Hosford's wife died, and he married the widow of Henry FOULKES, and a few years later they went back to England never to return. He left his land and house to his son John. John Hosford increased his inheritance and his will shows thus: To his son, William, 225 pounds, John, 121 pounds, dau. Hester, Mary and Sarah, 100 pounds each, and to Obadiah, 122 pounds (Col. Rec.). John Hosford and his brother-in-law Timothy Thrall, were apparently close friends and supported each other in town and church affairs. Phillury bore ten children, four of whom married grandchildren of original Colony members, and John (20), married Deborah, dau. of Peter BROWN of Plymouth. John Hosford was a member of a troop of 37 horsemen, first in the Colony, organized by the General Court and commanded by Capt. John Mason. John is mentioned in the records of Old Windsor as a carpenter, a master workman at building houses.

FOURTH GENERATION

The idea of taxes as we know them in 1960, were not even dreamed of in this time, to wit (ref: "Old Windsor" P. 414.

In July, 1737, Lt. William Thrall (4) (Tim. 3, Tim.2, Wm. 1) made a proposal to build a bridge "across the Rivulet at the ferry." and a committee was chosen to consider the matter. The Lieutenant was somewhat ahead of his more conservative neighbors, as we find no further mention of a bridge until April, 1745 (Lt. Wm. Thrall died in 1738 at the age of 38) at which time a town meeting was warned to consider "about the Rivulet ferry" and "about a bridge there." The latter was again negatived. In April, 1748, however, the subject again came before the town meeting and it was then agreed that any person or persons might have liberty to build a bridge, provided they did so at their own expense and made it a free bridge, forever. Said persons were to leave their names with the Town Clerk within one year from date.

In December following, Peletiah Allyn, Daniel Bissell, Isaac Burr, and sundry others, announced to the Town Clerk their intention of accepting this extremely liberal offer. Accordingly, in 1749 they erected a good cart bridge, the first ever erected across the Tunxis, and made it free. In 1759 it needed repairs or rebuilding, but the town voted "not to build or repair." Whereupon (December 1759) the original builders of the bridge petitioned the Assembly that they "would order the Town of Windsor to rebuild or make such repairs as were necessary." The Assembly did so order (May 1760) but the refractory and illiberal town merely contented themselves with making a few slight and temporary repairs, and thus the matter rested until 1762, when the necessity of a good, new and substantial bridge became too imperious to be any longer evaded.

In 1762 they finally received permission from the Assembly at Hartford to run a lottery to pay for the bridge, which they did, in October 1762. Unfortunately, five years later, a flood washed the bridge away, so that it had to be rebuilt.

LIEUTENANT WILLIAM THRALL

Born 2 Oct. 1700, died 25 Oct. 1738, married Oct. 1728, his cousin, Hannah Thrall (4) (Thom. 3., Tim. 2., Wm. 1) daughter of Thomas and Elizabeth (HOSKINS) Thrall. She died 27 Aug. 1779. She lived as a widow for 41 years, could not have been more than sixteen when married. Lt. WILLIAM THRALL was apparently a rather colorful character and popular as a young man, as he was elected Lt. of the Trained Band, and later elected Captain of Windsor Trained Band, but not approved by Legislature. He was in debit, and jailed for it in a neighboring town. Members of the Trained Band released him from jail. Everyone heard of the escapade and Legislature felt that a person with so much military power should not disregard law so freely. Evidently he was not a good financier. He borrowed from one to pay another until the old court record would make it appear he was a daily visitor. His death at the age of 38 was inexplicable, as most Thrall's are long-lived. No knowledge of how or where he died. He was in great financial trouble at the time. His will was not settled for several years, as there was a suspicion that perhaps he was not dead but had gone to some other part of the country.

Born 22 May 1716. Died 19 Oct. 1777. Married 10 Nov. 1738, Margaret HODGE, dau. of John Hodge of Windsor, Conn. She B. 5 June 1720. Joel settled in Torrington about 1739 on what is still known as the Thrall place (1878), a half mile east of Goshen line. The old chimney is still standing. Here he probably kept a tavern and his son, Pardon, after him. He was also a farmer, and not a member of the church, which was strange for his day.

CAPTAIN SAMUEL THRALL

Born 11 July 1737 in Windsor, Conn. Died 3 Dec. 1821 in West Rutland, Vermont. Married Lucy Winchell, of Simsbury, Conn., dau. of Martin (4), (Stephen 3, Nath'l 2, Robert 1) and Lucy Winchell. She was born 8 Apr. 1737, died in West Rutland, Vt. Her father, Martih, died 15 Feb. 1785. She had three brothers, Martin, Nath'l and Dan, and a sister Deborah, who married Simeon LEWIS. SAMUEL THRALL was the fourth child, third son of John and Mary. As the Winchell family were near neighbors and good friends of the Thrall family, Samuel and his older sister both married Winchells. Samuel was a good student, and he was given jobs that required a knowledge of bookkeeping and record keeping, and as he moved from Windsor to Granville, Mass. and then to Rutland, Vermont, he told his children about their forebears. He moved to Granville, Massachusetts and reared his family there. The country was hilly but he had a farm in Granville, and moved from there to Vermont in 1790.

SAMUEL THRALL served in the Colonial Army and held a commission in the English troops in the French War of 1762. When the Revolution came, he was thirty-nine years old and he enlisted in the Colonial Army. He was a Supply Officer in the Massachusetts Militia at Ticonderoga and several other campaigns. In the last year of the Revolution, he was Captain of a Company of Militia that marched into the Mohawk Valley to stop an English or Indian attack. His son, Jesse, served the same Company. After the war, SAMUEL returned to Granville, Mass. and in 1788-89 was a member of the General Court at Boston. He had sympathized with the leaders of Shays' Rebellion, however, on the currency situation, and as a result suffered much criticism, and his property was threatened. In 1790 at the age of 53, he moved to Vermont with most of his children and most of his worldly goods.

For thirty years, he was a much revered citizen of Rutland. His property was in what is now West Rutland, and marble quarries are near the old Thrall homestead. Samuel is buried in the old West Rutland Cemetery and a marble marker tells of his Revolutionary activities. His wife, Lucy, and son Chauncey Thrall, Esq. are buried nearby. SAMUEL was five feet nine inches tall and weighted a little over 160 pounds. He remained in sound health until shortly before he died at the age of 84.

JESSE THRALL

JESSE was born in Windsor, Conn. While he was very young, his father moved to Granville, Mass. where JESSE was reared. At the age of sixteen, JESSE joined his father's Company and marched up the Mohawk Valley to fight the English and the Indians. Soon after the Revolution, the family moved to Rutland, Vermont. A year later JESSE married his Granville sweetheart, Mehitable (Mabel) ROSE. JESSE was a farmer in Rutland, Vermont and for a number of years, operated the "Mansion House", an inn in Castleton, Vermont. When he was about fifty years old, at the urging of his brother-in-law, Timothy Rose, he moved to Ohio, taking with him his sons, Walter and William and his daughter, Charlotte. Ohio was then pretty much of a wilderness, but he settled in Circleville where he was active in business until he died at the age of seventy-eight. All JESSE's children received a good education, for that period. Two sons were prominent lawyers, another son was a successful publisher and printer, and one was Treasurer of Ohio and Grand Master of Ohio Masons.

(217)

JESSE'S daughter, Charlotte, married Guy W. DOANE, a lawyer in Circleville, Ohio. Mabel ROSE came from true pioneer stock. Her grandfather had come from Scotland to Granville, Mass. Her father and brothers had been very active in Granville Affairs. They had also been leaders in the movement West. Obviously Mabel Rose was a virile, strong and intelligent woman.

JESSE Thrall was born 17 May 1765 in Windsor, Conn. Died 16 Dec. 1843. Mable Rose, dau. of Justus (2), Jonathan (1), was born 13 Jan. 1768, died 17 Dec. 1834. Jesse and Mabel were married 25 Jan. 1791 in Granville, Mass.

LUTHER THRALL

Born 15 Apr. 1792 in Rutland, Vermont, and died 5 July 1876 in Poultney, Vermont. LUTHER was six feet two inches tall, always slender, a scholarly man and neat about his appearance. on 19 May 1824, he married Laura CHIPMAN, daughter of Stephen and Hannah (STONE) Chipman. She was born 16 Apr. 1806, and died 5 July 1898 in Rutland, Vermont. Both are buried in Poultney, Vermont. Laura was a descendant of John Chipman who married Hope Howland, the daughter of John Howland, Pilgrim. Stephen Chipman was a hat maker of stovepipe hats for the firm of Chipman and Stone. Her uncle was First Attorney General of Vermont, a petitioner for Statehood. Laura had a very fine mind and a strong will. She lived to be 92 years old and although she became senile in her last few years, she was never bed-ridden, and took pride in her appearance. LUTHER went to Central Ohio in 1817 with his father and brothers, but returned to Vermont after having taken land in Ohio. Several years later, he went by stage and oxcart from Rutland, Vermont to Circleville, Ohio and Columbus, Ohio. In 1843, he went by packet on the Erie Canal to Buffalo, by lake boat to Sandusky, and by carriage to Columbus, Ohio. Of this last trip, we have his daily diary, telling of the luxury of traveling thus. Luther's younger brother, Reuben Rose, had a law office in Rutland, and until he moved to Poultney, Luther worked much with his brother. Both brothers owned farms in West Rutland, no doubt inherited from their grandfather, Samuel Thrall. LUTHER was an active Episcopalian. The two boys born to LUTHER and LAURA were big men physically, both being six feet three inches tall and weighing over two hundred pounds. The elder, Stephen Chipman Thrall, studied at Columbia University, and New Seminary for the Episcopal Ministry. He preached in Haverhill, Massachusetts, and later in San Francisco, California, and Cumberland, Maryland. LUTHER bought a farm in Poultney, Vermont that is still in the family. He lived there the last ten years of his life. He had a stroke and died quite suddenly.

WALTER THRALL

Born 2 May 1794 in Rutland, Vermont. Died 7 April 1885 in Columbus, Ohio. WALTER married Harriet MULLIKEN, dau. of Joseph and Hannah (GOODWIN) Mulliken, on 18 April 1820. Harriet came from Rutland, Vermont to Columbus, Ohio in 1814. She was 16 years old at the time. She was a very healthy woman all her life. At 84 years of age, she came in from trimming a hedge, and feeling a little weak, she sat in a chair and died. She died 7 Apr. 1882 in Columbus, Ohio. WALTER emigrated to Ohio in 1815. In 1814, before he was twenty years old, he was a sergeant in the army of the United States, a colonel in the militia of Ohio in 1828. He was a Freemason and attorney-at-law. In 1858, he was elected and commissioned a judge of the Probate Court of Pickaway County, Ohio. He became a member of the Episcopal Church in 1817. He was a member of the convention in 1818 which elected Bishop Chase, the first bishop of the diocese of Ohio, also a member of the convention in 1831 which elected Bishop McIlvaine, and a member of the convention in 1859 which elected Bishop Bedell. WALTER made several trips East while Probate Judge, in an effort to find relatives of persons who had died in Ohio. Through this, he started looking up his own family. He spent a great deal of time in the 1850's compiling information about his family. He spent much time in and around Windsor, Connecticut, and Granville, Massachusetts, and with his brothers in Vermont. In 1862, the results of his efforts were published by his son, Lucian, who owned half-interested in the Columbus-Gazette Publishing Company. The introduction to WALTER THRALL's Genealogy is reproduced at the start of this book. WALTER sold his law books to Wm. McKinley who was just opening a law office.

MELVILLE HORNE THRALL

Born 21 Sept. 1814 in Johnstown, New York
Died 19 Sept. 1884 at Gouverneur, New York
Married 31 Jan. 1838, Esther SMITH, dau. of Harvey Douglas and Harriet (MURDOCK) Smith. She was born 1 Oct. 1813 in Poultney or Pawlet, Vermont.
Died 28 Apr. 1903 at Gouverneur, New York.
Harvey Douglas Smith, father of Esther, came to Gouverneur, New York in 1824. His wife, Harriet (MURDOCK) Smith died prior to this emigration. The Murdock name has been handed down in every generation since. Harvey Smith was financially independent in Gouverneur, New York. He had served as Member of Vermont Legislature and again in New York Legislature, was surrogate of County of Gouverneur, St. Lawrence County, owned and operated a drug store. Esther Smith, his daughter, was considered by everyone at that time to be remarkable for her knowledge and literary ability. She taught school and then married MELVILLE H. THRALL. They moved to the family farm on Johnstown Road, two miles southwest of Gouverneur, N.Y. Esther was very short and heavy-bodied, about four feet eleven inches tall. She read prodigiously. Her grandson relates that she would read in bed, one hand holding a kerosine lamp and the other a book. Her brother, James Murdock Smith studied law in Gov. DeWitt Clinton's office, invested in Buffalo Real estate and died, worth 3 million dollars. MELVILLE and his father, and a good part of his brothers and sisters settled on Johnstown Road, Gouverneur, N.Y., around 1830, on farms. They were also tanners. Gouverneur had a tannery and that was probably why they came. MELVILLE was five feet ten inches tall, of medium build with high cheekbones and forehead. He farmed all his life. Was one of the first elders of the Presbyterian Church in Gouverneur.

Children of Melville Horne and Esther (SMITH) Thrall:

GEORGE EVANS THRALL

Born 4 Feb. 1821. Died 29 Apr. 1905 in Eureka, Kansas

Married Jane Maria (Mary Jane) PRATT at Berkshire, Ohio, dau. of Maj. Benjamin and Mary (BLANCHARD) Pratt of Johnstown, Ohio. The Pratt family was one of the founders of Granville, Ohio. Mary Blanchard Pratt was the dau. of Joseph Blanchard who in 1818 came to Granville from Maine with his family. He and his four sons were wagon-makers in Granville. In 1859, George Evans Thrall moved with his family to Monroe, Wisconsin where he went into the banking firm of Usher & Thrall. The Civil War stopped all private banking, so GEORGE bought farm lands in Wisconsin, but he did not personally operate them. He sold the Wisconsin property in 1874 and went to Eureka, Kansas, accompanied by sons George and Frank. He was a director of the First National Bank of Eureka for many years and acquired considerable property.

REUBEN ROLAND THRALL

Born 1 Jan. 1838 in West Rutland, Vermont

Died 19 June 1924 in Poultney, Vermont

Married Mary Elizabeth CLARK, 15 Nov. 1866 in Poultney, Vermont

She was born 19 Apr. 1843, died 26 Nov. 1920. Daughter of Warren and Sarah (Baker) Clark of Poultney, Vermont.

REUBEN ROLAND was six feet, two and one-half inches tall, broad shouldered and narrow hipped. He retained excellent physical condition until he was past 80 years old, good enough condition to break a colt. He had bright blue deep-set eyes, light brown hair and a fine tenor singing voice. He sang in the choir most of his life and played the tuba in a band. The choirs and bands changed, but he kept his firm opinions about music. He was educated at Fort Edward Academy, Fort Edward, N.Y. and returned to Rutland.

He was a drill officer of the Rutland Light Guard and fought in the Civil War with the 1st Vermont Regiment. All his life he was interested in military matters of all countries. He returned after the war to his father's farm in East Poultney and bought a half interest in it from his father. He courted and married Mary Elizabeth CLARK, a teacher in the local school and the daughter of a neighbor. They had six children who survived infancy. REUBEN was a good father and disciplinarian. Both he and his wife were well-liked and respected in the community. In fact his wife was known as Aunt Libby to most of the town. When his father died in 1878, REUBEN took over the whole farm and raised registered Jersey cattle. He had the first important herd of that kind of cattle in Rutland County. He also raised Morgan horses, which were his greatest interest and nearly caused his financial downfall. He loved horses and was, throughout his later life, convinced that the automobile was a passing fancy and could never supplant horses as transportation. He died in his bed of diabetes in 1924, having outlived his wife by four years.

WILLIAM B. THRALL
Born 25 Feb. 1834 in Rutland, Vermont
Died 17 Apr. 1900 in Rutland, Vermont
Married 1st: Frances C. DURFEE of Westport, N.Y., 29 Nov. 1855, who died in March, 1894.
Married 2nd: Mary A. MOONEY of Castleton, Vt., in Aug. 1896.
WILLIAM served in the Civil War. He was a printer on the Rutland "Herald" and was of great service to the Herald, particularly in 1894 when its Centennial edition was being prepared. He had a remarkably good memory and a notable fund of anecdote and reminiscence about Rutland and Rutland people. His ability to recall scenes and incidents and sayings of people who had passed away materially added to the value and interest of that memorial number of the paper.
WILLIAM was mainly instrumental in having the city of Rutland lighted with electricity. He drank to excess at time and had a colorful vocabulary.

GEORGE E. THRALL
Born 24 Feb. 1836 in Rutland, Vermont. Died 22 Feb. 1916
Married Jesse CLARKSON, 4 Oct. 1866. She was born 17 June 1841, Died 10 Nov. 1927.
GEORGE was one of two sons and several daughters of a well-known lawyer, locally educated, he decided at about twenty, to enter the hotel business and the agitation about the time of the start of the Civil War found him managing a hotel in New Orleans. From there, he wrote interesting letters home, particularly to his sister "Franc" or Frances (#597) who was his favorite. He continued in the hotel business until his two sons were about half-grown, living in various parts of the country, lastly in Omaha, Nebraska. While in Rochester, New York, he met and married Jessie CLARKSON, daughter of a Scottish merchant from Edinburgh.

The Clarkson family still live in and around Rochester. After a stay in Omaha, Jessie and GEORGE moved to Detroit, where GEORGE started the Detroit Screw Works, continuing in his business until his death. His great delight was his family and he was never happier than when most or all of his descendants were around him. The big old house he bought on Gross Ile, about twenty miles from Detroit and on an island in the Detroit River, was the family home until after his death and did often hold all the children and grandchildren of his branch of the family. GEORGE had a delightful sense of humor and a great kindliness. He was a successful businessman and a beloved and respected husband, father, and grandfather. It can truly be said, "His word was as good as his bond."

RUSSELL THRALL

Born 20 Nov. 1825 in Ellington, Conn. Died 4 June 1906, age 81

Married 20 Dec. 1849, Charlotte GRANT. She was born 25 Apr. 1827, died 5 July 1908, age 81. She was the daughter of Hiram and Mary (OSMER) Grant of S. Windsor, Conn.

RUSSELL attended the District School during two and a half months in the winter and worked on the farm during the busy season until he was seventeen years old. After leaving school, he assisted his father on the home farm for a number of years, at the end of which time his accumulated savings amounted to $1,300, the result of most careful and painstaking economy. This was the foundation on which he was to make a start in life, but reverses attended him at the very beginning of his career. His money was lost and his home which he had intended for his young bride was imperiled. In five years, however, RUSSELL was able to buy out his brother Norman and the farm which had thus come into his possession as a result of pluck and hard work, was subsequently increased until at one time he owned 200 acres. He followed farming, in 1888 he purchased a home in Ellington Center, Conn. and left the farm in charge of his son, Judson, H. When his son died, he sold the farm. Russell was a Democrat. He served as assessor for two years, was a member of the Board of Selectmen three years, being chairman two years. In 1879, he was elected to the State Legislature where he was appointed on the Committee on Insurance. He was on the Board of Relief and for several years, on the School Committee.

After the Civil War, ALFRED and his wife returned to the old homestead which he had inherited from his father, located in Vernon, Connecticut. His ancestors had lived on it ever since the land was purchased from the Indians. Tradition has it that the Indian Chief, Tankanhooson is buried on this farm, and the stream that runs through it bears his name. Arrow heads and other evidences of their presence are frequently unearthed. ALFRED was engaged in tobacco raising for a while then turned his attention to dairying on a large scale. He experimented with corn and selected a few ears to send to the Columbian World's Fair in Chicago. He won a Bronze Medal for the best yellow corn exhibited. The yield harvested on September 5th was from forty to seventy bushels to the acre and the weight was fifty-six to sixty-four pounds to the bushel.

Born 23 Apr. 1882, in Windsor, Conn.

Married 2 May 1908 in Granville, Mass. Mamie L. CLARK. She was born 22 Apr. 1889

OLIVER began his career in tobacco just before the turn of the century. They were raising Havana Seed tobacco then. He had attended business college in Hartford, Conn. and in 1908, he married Mamie L. CLARK at Granville, Mass. It was a double wedding, as OLIVER's cousin, Howard Thrall married Mamie's sister, Ella on the same day. OLIVER has been a very active business man and not only has, with his son, a large tobacco raising operation, but one of the country's finest herds of Holstein cattle. OLIVER has also found time to serve at one time as Chairman of the Zoning Commission, and of the Town Planning Board. He was President of the Windsor Shade Tobacco Company. He is a Congregationalist.

The Thralls should be counted among the pioneers in growing the Connecticut shade tobacco, which has proven the finest cigar wrapper of today. OLIVER brought to the ancestral farm, a heard of the finest available dairy cattle. Today the two large cow barns and great silos are models of perfection in the dairy industry. OLIVER and MAMIE have traveled extensively and are still active.

FRANCIS CHIPMAN THRALL

Born 26 July 1874 in Poultney, Vermont

Died 27 Juhe 1960 in Rutland, Vermont. Buried in East Poultney Vermont

Married 23 Apr. 1919 in Albany, New York, Genevieve Seward HAYWARD.

She was born 10 Feb. 1882 in Liverpool, England, the daughter of Edward and Jane Seward.

FRANCIS left Poultney, Vermont soon after he graduated from Troy Conference Academy. He spent several years in Hartford, Conn. learing the clothing business. From Hartford, he moved to Boston, Mass. where he worked for R.H.White Company in their clothing department. He returned to Poultney, Vermont in the early 1900's but when World Ward I broke out, he was sent to France. He spent two and a half years there, largely in the capacity of expediting the handling and distribution of supplies for army canteens, and much of his time was spent in or near Paris. FRANCIS was a handsome man, about five feet eleven inches tall, had grey eyes, and weighed about 180 pounds. He was interested in amateur dramatics and played a leading part in almost two-thirds of the plays which were put on in Poultney and the surrounding towns. Being a fine horseman, he often lead the parades in the town. He was very dignified and always did the proper thing. He never passed a woman without tipping his hat, and in a small town that was very noticeable. His grace and good mannaers were something that everybody in the community was conscious of and he was well respected. FRANCIS stayed in the clothing business until he was in his sixties then went selling insulation. He did so well at it, that the head of the company offered him the job of sales manager. This offer came just a few days before his seventieth birthday, so he did not accept it. It is interesting to note that he did not find his real niche in business until he was past sixty.

LUTHER GARDNER THRALL

Born 1 June 1876 in Poultney, Vermont
 Died 13 Mar. 1941 in Rutland, Vermont. Buried in East Poultney.
 Married 26 Apr. 1898, Elsie May FARR. She was born in Raceville,
 New York on 28 April 1880. She died 9 Apr. 1944 in Rutland, Vermont.
 Buried in East Poultney. Elsie was the daughter of Charles and Mary (KING) Farr of Fort Ann and Saratoga, New York. Charles Farr lived to be 91 (Stephen (6) #94, Reuben (5) #92, Stephen (4) #83. LUTHER had a fine sense of humor and priceless smile. He was a strict and respected father.
 LUTHER and elsie devoted their time to stimulating their children's ambitions. When the boys were in their teens, they decided they would like to raise chickens. Instead of giving the boys the initial investment, LUTHER took them to the bank and the transaction was handled in a business-like manner. Because the boys were minors, LUTHER endorsed their note, but the boys paid it all back in a year and a half, as they sold chickens and eggs. LUTHER was always busy at something. He became interested in automobiles when they were new and kept abreast all his life. He was a skilled mechanical engineer and was foreman of A.Y.Gray Company in Poultney, manufacturers of Ruggles engines. The plant burned down just after World War I. LUTHER then turned to selling Pierce Arrow automobiles, and he was still in the automobile business when he died. He was always fixing automobiles and his son recalls that before garages were common, the back yard was always full of cars which he fixed for his friends.
 When he was in his late fifties, he developed a great interest in the old family homestead and farm which at that time was owned by his son, Durward Stephen. Although Elsie would not go there to live. LUTHER took over the direction of the farm and it is one of the few times that the farm made money. LUTHER and Elsie both coordinated well and liked sports and dancing. They lived in Poultney, Vermont until about 1920 when they moved to Rutland, Vermont. Luther was a Mason, and Warden of the Episcopal vestry in both places.

CHARLES HOLMES THRALL

Married 9 Oct. 1895 Ida A. McPHERSON

CHARLES HOLMES THRALL was attending Yale until the blizzard of 1888. At the height of the blizzard, he was helping his father, Julius, with his livery business, located in the center of Rockville. He was driving a sleigh and became unconscious and was not found for some time. Some eye damage resulted and after living in darkened rooms for several months, at the suggestion of a doctor, he left for the warmer climate of Florida in 1889.

He worked as an electrician for a year or two in Florida and then was convinced by friends of the opportunities in Havana. Upon his arrival, he went to work for the electric company, where he became chief electrician after a short time.

Two or three years later, his American friends set him up in business, the Charles H. Thrall Electric Company. As this company prospered, he purchased a stone quarry across the bay at Jesus Des Monte. Both operations prospered and CHARLES made many important friends.

He had dinner with some of these friends aboard the battleship "Maine" one evening, and as he was being rowed back to shore by one of his supervisors, the "Maine" was blown up and the Spanish American War had begun. (Sixteen years later, when the "Maine" was raised, The Charles H. Thrall Electric Company, supplied the electric power on the job.

Leaving directly for Florida, he was enlisted by the Navy to serve as a spy. He was listed as correspondent by the New York Daily Telegram and worked from the flagship which lead the blockade off Havana. He was put ashore on four occasions, his primary mission was to evaluate gun placements.

The first mission went smoothly. On the second mission, he rescued a woman news correspondent serving as a spy who had become suspect. As a result, he became suspect, and a reward for his capture dead or alive was set at 2000 pesos.

The third mission took him to Cabanas fortress directly behind Morros Castle. He successfully entered the fort as a peddler with a push cart full of fruit and candies. He obtained the required information and left, but he was realized almost immediately afterward and a full scale search began. CHARLES managed the 7 kilometers to the rendezvous, however, he could not make contact because of the search. He stood in a coral swamp for sixteen hours which caused severe lacerations and infection to his legs.

On his fourth mission, he was captured and chained to the floor of a four foot high cell, in the dungeons of Cabana's fortress. The date of his capture was May 18, 1898. He was held several weeks, expecting execution at any moment. However, President McKinley had been informed of his capture and negotiations were underway to trade prisoners. Eventually, the brother-in-law of General Weyler, head of the Spanish forces and two other officers were traded for CHARLES's life. At least one newspaper carried an illustration of President McKinely and CHARLES, shaking hands, with CHARLES thanking the President.

After the war CHARLES returned to Havana, reclaimed his quarry and reorganized the electric company. Both prospered for many years (25-30). He also built the first modern sugar mills in Cuba. There were several other interesting business ventures, including sugar beets in Texas power stations on the Rio Grande, and real estate.

In spite of the tremendous abilities of this man of old five feet two inches, his personal life was a series of unhappy developments. His first wife, Ida, spent most of their married life in semi-seclusion in a beautiful home in West Hartford. In the late 30's, he discovered he had cancer of the tongue and throat. A great deal of money went for treatment and operations, not to mention years of pain and suffering. His daughter, Corrinne, who was extremely frail and delicate, became a suicide in her mid-twenties. His second wife, Florence, seemed to bring him the only personal happiness he knew.

For years, CHARLES spent hundreds of hours each summer in the Historical Library in Hartford and among the State archives, writing up the story of the Thrall family. He arranged his findings in an orderly fashion and made it possible for many of the Thrall clan who left Connecticut, to trace their ancestry. We are all indebted to him for the research he did and of organizing the information he collected. The handwritten records of his findings are preserved for posterity in the Historical Library in Hartford, Connecticut.

He has furnished information to the Los Angeles County Dept. of Recreation on the 1,587 square miles of mountain and forest in that county, of which he knows every foot. He has edited and published the "Little Trails" magazine, and wrote "Today's Hike" column for the Los Angeles Times. According to the County and Federal Forestry Departments, he has been instrumental in saving in fire suppression costs alone, an average of $150,000 a year. He was the only one who knew the mountains and their people well enough and to get the cooperation of the thousands of people who used the mountains, to combat the fire danger. His one-man crusade to protect the mountains he loved, has won him acclaim. WILL was President and leader of the San Antonio Hiking Club for 34 years. He led them on three hiking trips after he was 80 years old. His is an Honorary Life member of 2 other hiking clubs.

Married 25 April 1936 in Windsor, Connecticut, Marian H. GILMAN.
She was born 1 July 1917 in Hartford, Connecticut
JOSEPH and his father are partners in a large tobacco farm.
He attended The Loomis School and graduated from Yale.
JOSEPH is tall, lean and perhaps what we picture as a typical Yankee.
He knows the tobacco business and has done well with it, being a large producer of Shade Grown wrapper tobacco. His wife, Marian, takes real interest in both tobacco and cattle and keeps the records.
JOSEPH and MARIAN have a place in Florida where they spend some time in the winter, but the farm is so beautifully located on the Farmington River, one never needs leave in summer. The house overlooks Hoyts Meadow where the first Thrall in America tilled the soil that JOSEPH is tilling today. The movie "Parrish" depicting the life and growth of Shade Tobacco, was made on the Thrall farm.
